Programs

ART: Celebrating the visual fine arts, the Art Class will center on sketching, watercolors and ink, clay, and paint. Participants will delve into the materials and methods of crafting an exceptional piece of art through the use of foregrounds, backgrounds, and horizon lines. Art will be created using inspirations from real life settings and photography. The resulting works will be displayed throughout Central United Methodist to celebrate their accomplishments. Additional materials may be required for the class. Art viewing held at 3:00 PM on Sunday, June 15th.

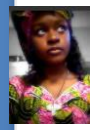
MUSIC: Creating a natural musical awareness of patterns and rhythms, the Music Class will lead participants into an exciting exploration of their musical aptitudes. The daily instruction will encourage students to discover their own beats paired with pre-music theory dynamics. The youths' week-long excursion into music will culminate with an afternoon recital for family and friends on Sunday the 15th at 3:00 PM.

PERFORMING ARTS: The Performance Class will celebrate the traditions of the theatre. Allowing participants to develop their dramatic inclinations, the lessons will examine Elizabethan dancing, acting exercises, and scenes from A Midsummer Night's Dream. The class will culminate in a field trip to the American Shakespeare Center with a behind the scenes look at the facility. On the afternoon of Sunday the 15th at 3:00 PM, the class will present a performance to their peers.

DANCE: Emphasizing movement with modern technique, the Dance Class will study natural movement expressions and the classical elements of dance. Energy along with space and timing will be studied to understand the facets of dance and create a unique composition that expresses the students' choreographic voice. New and experienced students are welcomed into this creative and collaborative class. Performance for peers to be held Sunday the 15th at 3:00 PM.

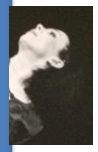
Meet Our Instructors

Lili Un graduated Magna Cum Laude from VCU with her bachelor's degree in Painting and Printmaking. She has exhibited her paintings internationally and has several works in the collection of Capital One. A recipient of an undergraduate research grant, she traveled to Qatar to collaborate with a fellow student and exhibit their work in a two-person public exhibition. Lili has completed an internship at Mathaf: The Arab Museum of Modern Art and two apprenticeships in Korea for ceramics and for icon painting. Lili has been teaching drawing, painting and clay to children of all ages for four years. She is both excited and honored to be teaching your children this summer.



Murine A. Lusakweno has caught the attention of diverse audiences. Her Baptist and African Methodist background have led her to a deep appreciation of sacred music including spirituals and anthems, praise and worship, contemporary Christian and gospel, along with traditional gospel and hymns. Murine is the Greater Voices of Praise & Worship director and has served as the Anointed Voices of Praise Gospel Choir director. She attends Mary Baldwin College as a Social Work major and a Vocal Performance minor. Murine enjoys playing the piano and learning new instruments.

Lia Razak is an Education Artist for the American Shakespeare Center and is a student in Mary Baldwin College's Master of Letters in Shakespeare and Performance program. Lia is a Philadelphia native and came to the ASC as an education intern. She currently works as the ASC's archivist and also leads tours and workshops at the Blackfriars Playhouse. She graduated with honors from NYU's Gallatin School of Individualized Study and holds a BA in Shakespeare and Education.



Kimberly Field is the owner of Valley Dance Theatre. She has performed with Calaway Live, the Quiksilver Dance Team and appeared in educational films. Kim's choreography has received many awards including a nomination for Outstanding Choreography. She has choreographed the Country group, Sisters, the Miss Canada Pageant and worked with the Front Row Center Players. She received her BFA in Dance Performance From Shenandoah University with additional course work in Education. She has taught at Shenandoah University and JMU. Kimberly is a Registered Teacher for the Royal Academy of Dance and a Certified Zumba instructor. She is excited to be adjudicating for the State Dance Championships and Showstopper.
